Close S. Main to Through Traffic

Editor The Star: I moved to Hope in 1928, and this is the first time I have been unhappy over a situation.

Our editor wrote about the dead trees on S. Main St. and at last they are being cut down.

I would like to mention the dirt, trash, and ugly and dangerous ditches that have been with us for months without proper warning signs and lights. I shudder each time I see a small child throwing stones in the ditch filled with water in front of my house.

The citizens of Hope have been asked to use Elm and Walnut Sts. and stay off Main St. You would be surprised at the people who continue to use Main—that means extra dust for those who live on Main.

By late afternoon the air has been clouded with dust from previous high-speed traffic. There's almost no visibility. Let's enforce the speed limit!

To my knowledge there have been three bad accidents. One car went into a ditch and was demolished. Fortunately the driver was not seriously injured. Let's get the ditches properly marked.

A CITIZEN

Oct. 15, 1972
Hope, Ark.

I have withheld the name and address of the letter-writer, whom I know personally, since the subject matter is of general interest with no personalities involved; however, the original copy with name and address will be made available to city officials on request.

The letter is being given prominent display because the editor also lives on S. Main St. and personally observes that everything the writer says about a deplorable situation is true.

But my solution for this crisis would be more drastic than the writer's suggestion about merely installing warning signs and lights on the open ditches. We are in process of having S. Main St. rebuilt entirely—widened and repaved, with new utility lines underground and relocated power lines overhead. You can't do a job like this without confusion and dust. We'll put up with that.

But what is intolerable is the continued use of S. Main St. by through traffic coming to and going from State Highway 28.

The City of Hope began the street project by closing S. Main to through traffic and diverting it to S. Elm St. But after a relatively short time the detour rule was abandoned and through traffic returned to Main St.

The City of Hope should bar through traffic on Main at once, diverting it to either Elm or Walnut Sts. or both.

Officers should be stationed with orders to stop and demand identification of all drivers using S. Main and those not actually residing on the street should be turned back.

There have been times when I couldn't use my own garage and had to park the car away from the house. And this possibility will recur as Main St. approaches the stage where new paving is put down.

Under these circumstances it is only reasonable that through traffic be given the small inconvenience of using a one-block detour.

And this order should be issued at once—it is long overdue.

Oil well 'blows in' near Springhill

Employees of the Kern Drilling Company of Magnolia work to remove pipe from the ground at the site of an oil well which "blew in" Wednesday morning. The well is said to be the first in the county to ever have struck oil. The well, at right, is on the property of Watfey Bobo near Spring Hill, and was sunk to a depth of more than 5,940 feet and according to Bobo, "could be a good one, according to Kern's geologist." Bobo said the drilling company "definitely hit oil — good oil for a while — but they said they might drill a little deeper, maybe 100 feet or so." Bobo said the well "came in" about 10 a.m. Was he excited? "Well, I'm not getting too excited because it's still too early to tell. But I'm sure smiling a lot." (See other photo on page 2.)

Pact creates 'peace climate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most important commercial agreement ever reached by the United States and the Soviet Union has ended the Nixon administration, but the pact's future remains clouded by congressional concern for Russian Jews.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the trade agreement along with settlement of the Russian World War II Lend-Lease debt signed Wednesday "creates a climate for peace" in the world.

As described by Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson following the signing ceremony, the trade agreement would lead to $1.5 billion in trade by the end of its three-year life, a figure triple the current total.

This would be a accomplished by:

—Removal of discriminatory American tariffs on Soviet exports by the granting of most-favored-nation status to Russia.

—Allowing Export-Import Bank credits to the Soviets for use in purchasing such American products as machinery, agricultural goods, industrial products and consumer items.

—Establishment of an arbitration system supervised by third nations to settle commercial disputes.

—The avoidance of the shipments of goods that would "cause, threaten or contribute to disruption" of the other country's domestic market.

—Establishment of business and commercial facilities in Moscow and Washington, including construction of a large trade center in the Soviet capital.

In addition, the separate Lend-Lease agreement sets the final payoff of the Soviet's original $11-billion aid debt at $722 million, including interest.

While all this was described by Rogers as "a natural follow-on" to the Moscow summit that does not "carry economic implications only," the administration indicated it was not ready to face up to at least one political implication of the agreements.

Although both sides are operating as if the agreement is already final, it doesn't become truly effective until the most-favored-nation status is formally granted, and that takes congressional approval.

Kissinger meets Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger conferred twice today with President Nguyen Van Thieu, and Thieu's Information Ministry said the president had once again stated his opposition to a coalition government including the Communists.

President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser and the South Vietnamese president reviewed Kissinger's secret peace negotiations in Paris for 3½ hours in the morning at a meeting attended by 13 other high-level U.S. and Vietnamese officials.

Kissinger and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker returned in the late afternoon for another session with Thieu.

There was no official word or leak from the U.S. side of what was being said. But a spokesman for the South Vietnamese government, Vu Khanh, read this communique at the Information Ministry's daily news briefing:

"Political observers in Saigon remarked that at the arrival of the American delegation in Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu continues to meet with representatives of the Senate and the Lower House, the Supreme Court and various political parties and reasserted our firm position never to accept a tripartite proposal or any other political solution which has not been agreed upon by the people of South Vietnam through democratic means."

Khanh said the communique was sent to him at 10 a.m., midway through the first meeting between Kissinger and Thieu, and he was ordered to read it at the evening briefing.

He said he did not know why the communique attributed its information to "political observers" instead of an official government agency. But newsmen considered it a device for Thieu to make his position public without breaking any pledge of secrecy he might have given the Americans.

There was no indication yet when Kissinger would leave.

Boggs object of search by plane armada

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Feeling for some electronic pulse of life, an armada of planes prepared to resume the search today for a plane missing for three days with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three other persons aboard. Cool and clearing weather was expected to greet 35-40 aircraft and crews, "if they can get off the ground due to the weather," an Air Force spokesman said.

He added that an electronic equipped search craft had flown the suspected flight path of the plane "back and forth between Anchorage and Juneau" efforts to pick up possible distress signals.

Meanwhile, three Coast Guard cutters plied rough seas in the Gulf of Alaska during the night.

Bad weather continued to jumble the search schedule, but a Coast Guard spokesman in Juneau said it was "silly to give up hope when there are so many areas left uncovered."

Today's search was expected to center around two areas along the 560-mile route — the rugged Portage Pass area 50 miles southwest of Anchorage and coastline and mountain areas northwest of Juneau, about 500 miles to the southeast.

The missing twin-engine, Cessna 310 left Anchorage Monday on the last leg of a whirlwind campaign tour by Boggs on behalf of Alaska's lone member of the House, Rep. Nick Begich. It has not been heard from since.

Aboard it were Boggs, 58; Begich, 40; his aide, Russell Brown, 37, and the pilot, Don E. Jonz, 38, of Fairbanks.

Fog, rain and generally poor flying weather prevented all but the briefest of visual searches of the two areas Wednesday.

A crack 10-man Army mountain rescue team, which climbed to the top of Portage Pass on Wednesday, planned to move out at daylight for another er search over glaciated valleys and steep mountainsides.

Some Alaskan bush pilots, familiar with emergency situations in rough terrain, agreed that the light plane could have put down safely. But they also agreed that every hour the search continued unsuccessfully diminished the odds for survival.

Air Force and Federal Aviation Administration officials continued to investigate reports of signals received during the search from one or more emergency locator beacons.

Coast Guard helicopters picked up two separate signals on Tuesday but lost them quickly.

The emergency locator beacon of the type in the congressmen's plane is set to trigger on impact or manually.

British pound falls

LONDON (AP) — The British pound fell to its lowest level in 22 months today under a wave of selling orders from continental centers. In two hours of hectic trading it dropped 1.5 U.S. cents.

Dealers said the pound apparently came under attack as a result of Britain's persistent high rate of inflation and the threat of a national power strike.

The pound dropped to $2.394 shortly before noon, down from Wednesday's closing of $2.403. This was its lowest level since December 1970. Sterling had lost more than 15 cents since June 23, when the British government freed the pound to float at the mercy of market forces to halt a run on the pound.

The present run, sparked like that in June by the state of the economy, took sterling below its previous parity of $2.40.

Climer blasts special interests

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jerry Climer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, said Wednesday night special interest groups were busy "in the secretary of state's office."

In a speech to the Greater Little Rock Jaycees, Climer said if he is elected he would not allow favoritism in the awarding of state printing contracts, which he said would save the taxpayers money.

The secretary of state's office is in charge of letting printing contracts for the state that total about $3 million annually, Climer said. "A small number of big Little Rock printers who get the bulk of the contracts are very interested in this office," he added.

Climer said those printers have a friend in the incumbent, Kelly Bryant. "These Little Rock printing firms know they will remain in the driver's seat at the expense of the taxpayers of (the) state," Climer said.

"Look at the representatives of this special interest who came to Kelly Bryant's office last Friday when he needed help to cover up the fact he will not release to the public analysis sheets for Contract 27," Climer said.

He identified the four in Bryant's office as C. Armitage Harper, president of Democrat Lithographing and Printing Co., whose firm received "the lucrative Contract 27 despite the fact they probably were not low bidders;" John Wells of General Printing Co.; H. J. Sutton of Standard Register; and F. W. Canaday of Rhodes Paper Co.

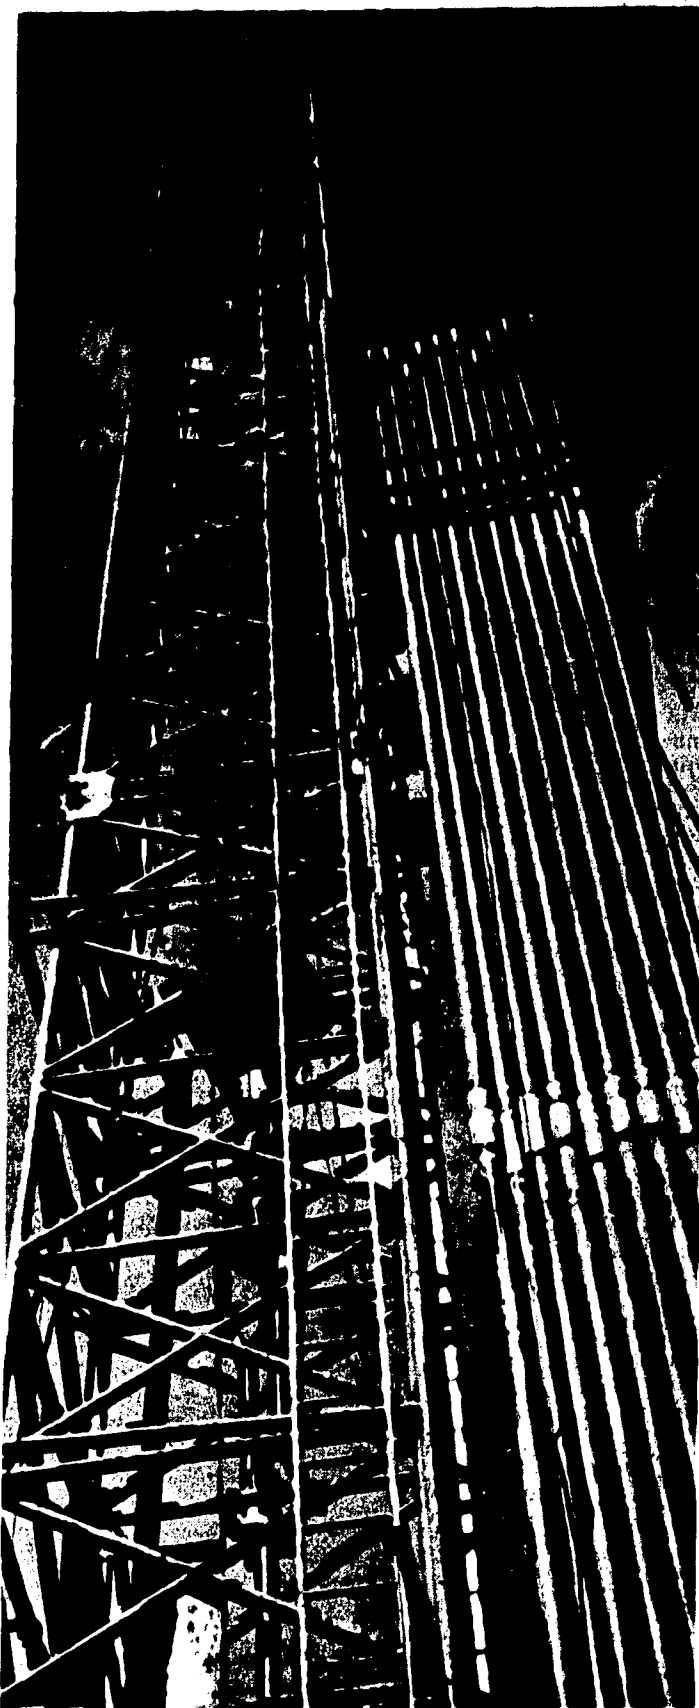

The GOP candidate went to Bryant's office Friday in an effort to get a copy of Bryant's analysis sheet on Contract 27, but he was unsuccessful.

He said the role of the four men in Bryant's office "seemed to be — assistant secretaries of state."

"They were present to answer all the questions about printing that Kelly Bryant could not answer," Climer said. "I find it appalling that these special interests are so influential over Kelly Bryant. I believe that is the cause of the high cost of printing contracts."

Climer said the "back-scratching principle is at work here." He said Bryant has helped them out and they came to help him out.

"It seems to me, Kelly Bryant and the printers do not just scratch each others' backs — they scrub vigorously," Climer said. "The only scars come to the public and the high price they pay for printing."

Segretti listed as worker for McGovern forces

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Donald H. Segretti, named as a key figure in an alleged Republican spying and sabotage campaign against Democratic presidential candidates, is listed here as a volunteer for George McGovern.

Barbara Bennett, manager of the McGovern-Shriver campaign headquarters in this Los Angeles coastal suburb, showed newsmen Wednesday three index cards bearing Segretti's name but indicating he had never taken part in any McGovern-Shriver rallies, canvases or other volunteer work.

No one at the Santa Monica office could recall seeing the man identifying himself as Segretti.

Miss Bennett said, however, that volunteers sometimes appeared at rallies and other events without signing themselves in and therefore she could not say categorically that Segretti actually never did any campaign work.

Efforts to reach him Wednesday night were unsuccessful. Earlier Wednesday the New York Times joined the Washington Post and Time magazine in publishing stories linking White House aide Dwight Chapin to Segretti.

The Times said it had learned that at least 20 calls made from Segretti's home telephone and charged to his credit card were directed to the White House, Chapin's home, and to the home and office of E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant indicted in the June 17 break-in at Democratic National headquarters.

92nd Congress -- 2-year battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress, battling with President Nixon to the end, killed about as many major bills as it passed.

Even before adjournment Wednesday night, the Democratic-controlled Congress had its two-year record thrust into the national political campaign.

Nixon accused the legislators of excessive spending and raised the issue again in his response to his twin defeat on the last day of the session.

Congress overrode his veto of a $24.6 billion water-pollution control bill and killed the $250-billion federal spending ceiling he sought along with unlimited power to make the cuts to achieve it. Nixon characterized the votes as an invitation to a tax increase.

Democrats replied that the President exaggerated the cost of the clean-water bill, that he has repeatedly vetoed funds urgently needed for education, health and other programs treating social ills, and that he has protected the Pentagon budget from their effort to pare what they call wasteful spending.

Nixon's only major domestic legislation to survive Congress was the $30.2 billion revenue-sharing bill which he plans to sign in ceremonies Friday at Constitution Hall in Philadelphia.

But Congress killed the welfare-reform plan which Nixon repeatedly called his most important domestic proposal. It killed antibusing legislation, all of the President's broad government reorganization proposals, and all of the various national health-care plans.

Congress fought and lost battles with the President on foreign policy and military issues in both the 1971 and 1972 sessions.

Amendments calling for an end to U.S. involvement in the Indochina war cleared the Senate three times in 1971 and twice in 1972, but none ever got through the House.

A watered-down version of a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to fix a time for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam did go to the White House last year but Nixon announced he would ignore it.

Congress ratified the arms-limitation agreements worked out by the President with the Soviet Union.

Despite many objections, members generally approved funds for new weapons projects Nixon said were necessary despite the agreements.

It was in the domestic field that Congress balked at several key Nixon proposals, and tried to enact others he rejected. He vetoed some, including a broad new child-development program.

In the 1971 session, Congress did give the President the economic and tax legislation he said he needed to control and stimulate business.

Among the major bills cleared in this year's session:

—A constitutional amendment barring discrimination on the basis of sex. Awaiting ratification by two-thirds of the states.

—An $8-billion, 20-per-cent increase in Social Security benefits for 28 million Americans, together with the taxes to pay for it. This measure also provides automatic future increases tied to the cost of living index.

—A $19.5-billion higher-education bill establishing a program of general federal financial aid for all colleges and universities and a system of basic grants for all needy college students. This bill also would hold up all school busing orders until Dec. 31, 1973, until all court appeals are exhausted.

—A $4-billion Social Security-welfare bill increasing benefits for widows, all male Social Security recipients, the disabled, persons who work after reaching retirement age, and other groups.

These were important measures passed in 1971:

—A $15.8-billion tax cut for individuals and business. Attached to this was a plan of government financing of presidential campaigns which takes effect in 1972.

—Legislation authorizing the President to control wages, prices and rents through April 30, 1973.

—A constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18. Ratified by the states.

—A $250-million loan guarantee for Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

—A requirement that all needy school children be given a free or reduced-price lunch.

—A 10-per-cent Social Security increase plus higher taxes to pay for it.

—A two-year extension of the military draft.

These were among major proposals rejected or not acted on by the 92nd:

—Nixon's plan to reform the welfare program for families by establishing a guaranteed annual $2,400 income for a family of four, providing aid for the first time for the working poor, and tightening work requirements. Passed the House, rejected by the Senate.

—A bill to impose strict limits on school-busing orders and to reopen previous cases under the new guidelines. Passed the House, failed in the Senate.

A cookie for all ghosts, goblins

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Keeping cookies on hand is a delightful chore. The major problem is for the baker to resist oversampling each batch. A hearty cookie with a different flavor and texture incorporates wheat germ and dairy sour cream. These are ideal for the Halloween crowd.

SOFT SOUR CREAM COOKIES

2 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour

1/2 cup wheat germ

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon baking powder

1/2 cup butter or margarine

1 cup granulated sugar

1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

2 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 cup dairy sour cream

1/2 cup granulated sugar

1 tablespoon wheat germ

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Measure flour, 1/2 cup wheat germ, salt, baking powder and soda onto wax paper. Stir well to blend. Cream butter, granulated sugar, brown sugar, eggs and vanilla until light. Add blended dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Flatten slightly. Combine 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon wheat germ and cinnamon. Sprinkle about 1/4 teaspoon on each cookie. Press in lightly. Bake at 400-degrees for 10-12 minutes. Store in container with tight fitting cover. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

Cleaning, drying and pressing — flowers — can spread some summer into your winter.

Autumn is the time to pick and preserve flowers, and the way to preserve a blossom's shape and color is by drying it.

Some flowers are dried best by hanging them. These include bitterweet, statice, yarrow, hydrangea, salvia and cockscomb, also known as celosia.

Just before they reach their prime, pick them and strip off the leaves. Small flowers may be tied into small bunches and hung heads downward. But don't let the heads touch. Keep them in a dry, dimly lit place for two to four weeks. Larger flowers dry better hung singly.

The drying mixture method is recommended for foxglove, snapdragons, petunias, lilies, gladioli, delphinium, pansies, strawflowers and coral bells.

Again, harvest flowers before they are full-blown and put them into a box containing about an inch of silica gel or borax. In the box, the flowers should be covered by sprinkling drying mixture on them. Then store in boxes in cool, dark place for two weeks. They're ready when the petals feel crisp.

It will help preserve foliage if you crush or split the ends of the stems and stand the plants in a three to five inch solution of glycerin (two thirds) and water (one third). Soon beads of moisture will appear, an indication the foliage is ready to use. They should last a long time.

PRESSING

Flowers and many roadside weeds are suitable for pressing. Michigan State University's horticulture specialist, J. Lee Taylor, recommends using flowers such as pansies or violets that already are quite flat. Single geranium flowers also are good.

Flowers should be placed between sheets of newspaper, open in a natural position. Some times you will have trouble arranging them properly when you first insert them between sheets, but a few hours later, when the flowers have become limp and a bit flattened, petals may be rearranged.

The folded newspaper may be placed in a book or between magazines in a warm dry place. Apply more pressure by placing more books or magazines on top.

Change the newspapers once or twice a week. Drying will take about a week. In humid weather, change the newspapers daily, since this removes moisture from the flowers quickly, discourages mold and helps preserve colors. Blotters on either side of the newspaper makes it unnecessary to change it. When ready, the flowers should be crisp and dry.

Also fine for fall and winter interior decorating are ornamental gourds. How do you tell when a gourd is ready?

When the stem turns brown and begins to dry. Cut it off the vine then, leaving four inches of stem.

Wash gourds in soapy, warm water, rinse in a diluted disinfectant (5-10 per cent chlorine bleach.) To dry, spread them on layers of newspapers in a warm, sunny place for a week, then repeat process keeping them in a dry, dark place for three to four weeks.

Gourds may be prepared for display by waxing and buffing with a soft cloth, then shellacked or painted.

Thai look makes fashion debut

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—For news that runs the gamut from politics to fashion all eyes are looking East. And if your idea of Far East fashion is the dull blue worker's costume coming out of China, look again.

Some Eastern countries are producing a wealth of fashion splendor that's worthy of your close scrutiny.

Many buyers for American stores have set their sights on Thailand where East meets West in the designs of Jean Noel Haxo. Mr. Haxo is a French designer who has lived in Bangkok for the past 10 years.

In this country, he's best known for the Design Thai collection of exotic cotton prints shaped into pants costumes and long dresses and skirts. This season his designs for a second fashion label, Star of Siam, make their formal debut here.

Star of Siam, featuring wool challis and silk is no fledgling. It goes back 20 years in the annals of Asian couture and can list members of Thailand's royal family among its clientele.

Jean Noel's designs for both houses blend Eastern styling and pattern influences with impeccable Western tailoring techniques. These he learned in Paris where his early design work was a cooped up by the world's best-dressed women at houses such as Patou, Ricci and Lanvin.

Since moving to Thailand, Jean Noel has been engrossed with color and pattern. They are as inseparable from a total fashion look, he believes, as a beautifully shaped silhouette or a deftly cut décolleté. He personally selects the color combinations for his designs and supervises the hand-screening process that transfers them onto fabrics.

Cotton casts an opulent glow in exotic patterns, handprinted in lush tropical colors. The quilted Design Thai evening dress (left) is dramatized by a deep side slit and a double pattern border at the gently shaped waistline. Oriental splendor in pattern and color are combined in the long dress and coat (right) for the Star of Siam collection. The dress, slashed into a dramatic décolleté, is a hand-printed Thai silk in vivid Oriental colors. On the coat, the pattern is deftly defined by skillful quilting. Jean Noel Haxo is the designer.

The results are arresting. The Design Thai collection combines lush tropical colors like Persian blue, jungle green, orchid, terra cotta and flame on prints derived from ancient Bengalese, Bedouin, Batik and Burmese patterns. The prints in equally radiant colors in the Star of Siam collection are translations of geometric tribal prints and the designs of temple tiles, ancient rubbings and tapestries.

The collection is a royal feast of fabric and fashion. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

"Fat Girl" Gets Fat Mail

DEAR HELEN AND SUE: Which of your letters got the most mail recently?—ALWAYS INTERESTED

DEAR A.I.: "Miss 220, Five Feet Five" who wondered why nobody loves a fat girl, got the Aching Feet of the Month award from Norm, our friendly, strong-backed mailman. Amazingly, more than half our correspondents here were male, and the majority insisted they COULD love a fat girl—in fact some already did.

Examples:

RAP: This letter concerns "Miss 220." I am a 29-year-old man. I eat all I want and stay thin, and I am married to a so-called "Fat Girl" whom I adore!

Not all men love skinny—it's predictable that you two advise reducing, as you're probably both thin, but a lot of people DO look for other things in persons besides their shapes.

I've seen people lose their health from drastic diets—not to speak of their good dispositions. My advice to Miss 220 is this: As long as a woman is neat, cheerful, kind, happy, her shape can be overlooked. When the right man comes along, he won't care how much you weigh.—HAPPILY MARRIED TO A FAT GIRL

HELEN AND SUE: Maybe it wouldn't be so tough, staying with a diet if everyone didn't ask, "How are you doing with your diet?" How much weight have you lost?

Then I get discouraged and start eating. I tried dieting secretly, but people thought I was sick 'cause I didn't eat. Won't you please tell well meaning friends and relatives to keep quiet?—W.O.W. W.O.W.:

Will do: The best help for dieters is silent reinforcement: like having carrot sticks instead of candy bars handy in the refrigerator.—SUE

Morton continues roller coaster career

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

DALLAS, Texas — (NEA) — Would you want to turn over the direction of your $15 million business to the blithe spirit of Craig L. Morton?

Now people think of Craig, one of those tall sprouts from the sunshine state of California, as man pounded down by adversity, bogged in a morass of mediocrity, ego bruised and personality negligent.

So here he is again, starting quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, Super champions in quest of another title.

As recently as this past March, Craig descended from an aerie in the mountains of Colorado, where he had retreated to reflect upon his future (and indulge in some surreptitious skiing), and put in a call to Dallas, collect, to tell Coach Tom Landry that, yes, he would be content to stay with the Cowboys.

Last year he relinquished the role of starting quarterback to Roger Staubach and retreated to stoicism. But a quarterback approaching 30 has to do some self-assessment when he has lost his job and the Cowboys were sympathetic. They indicated if Craig felt he'd rather take his suspect skills to another team, they'd oblige him.

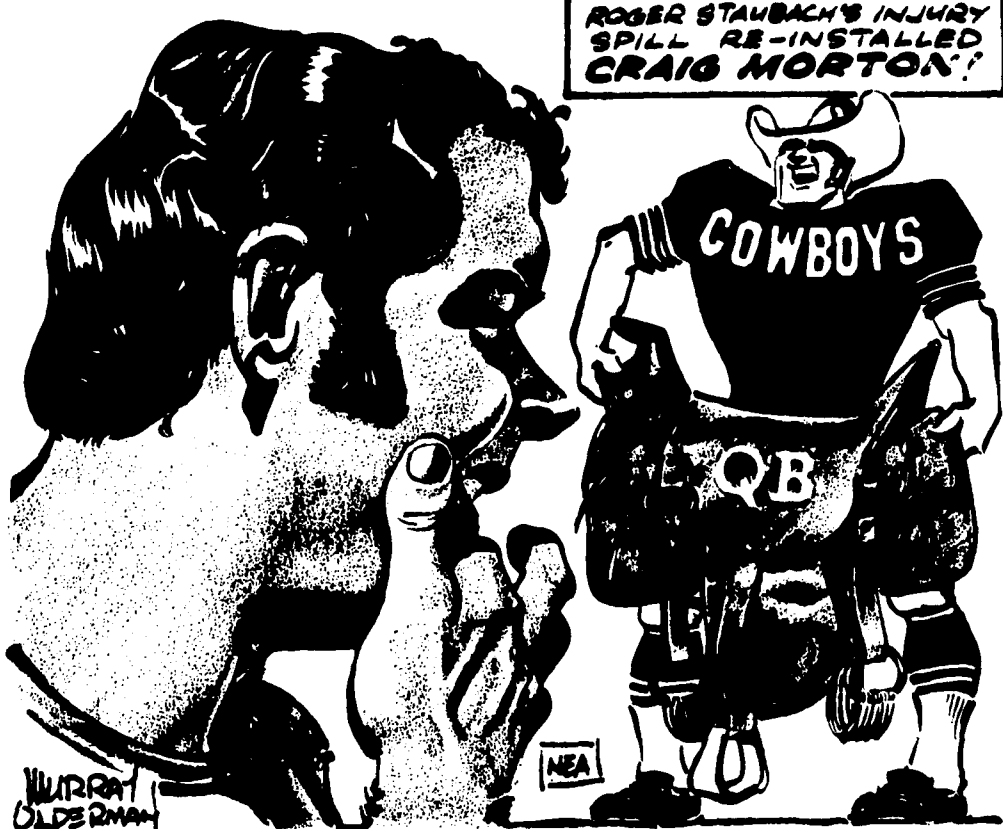

"I thought about it," admits Craig, "—maybe for a month after the Super Bowl (in which his successor, the scrambling Staubach, steered Dallas to victory). But it was never serious. You see, I'm convinced it takes two good quarterbacks to win a Super Bowl."

"I also felt if I could have a strong arm, I could compete with Roger. You see, the layoff last year did me good."

"Also, I've never been with any other pro team but the Cowboys. I don't want to go anywhere else."

It had taken Craig four years of apprenticeship to convince the Cowboys he was equipped to play first-string quarterback, and then he only got the chance by default when Dandy Don Meredith discovered his long suit was mouthing bon mots over the air instead of in the huddle. For a couple of years, Craig was the field leader and even got the Cowboys as far as the Super Bowl in 1970.

BACK IN THE SADDLE AGAIN

That was the year he also labored with a separated shoulder and an excruciatingly painful elbow and had to get both surgically repaired. In the Super Bowl loss to Baltimore, he was the goat of an interception in the closing seconds which led to the Colts' winning field goal.

Besides his downs-and-ups as a player, Craig's tenure in Dallas has been volatile for other occurrences. Some guys are accident prone. Craig is incident prone. He has been apprehended by gendarmes at three o'clock in the morning for stopping on a freeway to perform a natural earthy function. He was caught skinny-dipping in a local pond, also at three in the morning. Not alone, by the way.

Somehow, these reports don't quite jibe with the placid soul of Craig Morton, who can be gentle almost to a fault in the milieu of his profession and who reacts with the same listlessness whether he has been sacked by a tigerish defensive end or has thrown a touchdown pass to Bob Hayes. He breaks a huddle with all the verve of a death row prisoner taking his last walk.

But the Cowboys have him and he's their man momentarily to put them on the route to Super Bowl VIII—ever since Roger Staubach took one step too many in an exhibition game against the Los Angeles Rams and got his shoulder busted. Until Staubach returns to full duty, in maybe another month, the reliance is on Craig.

"It calls for a reshaping," admitted Tom Landry, the computerized coach of the Cowboys, who matches Morton in excitability level. "Our championship season was built on Roger as a scrambling quarterback, no doubt about it. Craig's a different type. It affects the nature of our offense."

Either way, Tom still calls the signals on every play, via tight end messengers. Choosing the plays is a chore once delegated to Morton but no more.

"We've gotten good results this way for two years," says Landry. "Why change?"

Craig himself shrugs, "We use the same plays we've always had. I don't think anything's different." Only his job status.

Danny Rhodes:

Getting ready

By RIC COOPER

Are the Razorbacks having any trouble getting ready for their annual clash with the Texas Longhorns?

Defensive ringleader, Danny Rhodes, answers that simply, "None at all."

"How can you keep from getting excited?" Rhodes asked. "You think about people back home and about things people say about Arkansas-Texas games. You stay conscious of the interest."

Home for Rhodes is Brazosport, Texas, where he earned All-America honors as a prep linebacker. Danny claims Arkansas by birth, however; he was born in Stamps and has relatives in the state.

Rhodes, earned SWC sophomore defensive player of the year in 1971, and was consensus all-SWC. One of the honors he holds highest isn't an award, but a comparison of him to Texas' All-America linebacker Tommy Nobis by the Longhorn coaching staff last year before the Texas-Arkansas game.

"You know, Texas has so much character on their team they're not going to let a defeat to Oklahoma keep them from playing us a good game," Rhodes said. "I'm confident we'll be up and ready to play, and I'm confident Texas will be ready."

Rhodes has been leading the defense in tackles each week, but he is still not satisfied with his personal play.

"I'm still not pleased with my tackling," Rhodes said. "I haven't been hanging onto people like I think I should. I hit them, but sometimes they have slipped loose. I want to correct it."

All four of the Razorbacks' victories have been close games, two being decided by one point margins.

"We haven't played anyone this year who has rolled over and played dead for us, Rhodes said. "Teams are stronger this year. Our close games have helped us jell quicker. They have made us play under pressure."

Frazier and Foreman given ultimatum

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The World Boxing Commission handed down a 48-hour ultimatum Wednesday night to champion Joe Frazier and George Foreman to set a date for a heavyweight title fight.

The ultimatum expires Saturday and was one of the first measures taken by the WBC convention which opened Thursday.

Disregarding the ultimatum would jeopardize Foreman's status as the No. 1 challenger while enhancing the position of Muhammad Ali, the former champion.

Frazier has rejected Foreman's views on the financial aspects of the fight. But the WBC declared that Frazier must risk his crown, not having done so with a recognized challenger in over a year.

Colts start youth movement, bump the great Unitas

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposed youth movement of the Baltimore Colts won't be accomplished overnight, but the oldest player will feel its effects first.

When Coach Don McCafferty was fired Monday, General Manager Joe Thomas said Baltimore youngsters would be given much more playing time during the remainder of the season.

In Sunday's upcoming game against the New York Jets, however, 39 year-old quarterback Johnny Unitas will be the only player actually bumped out of his job so far.

Taking over for Unitas—second to the Jets' Joe Namath in the AFC with 1,044 yards passing this season—will be Marty Domres, who spent four seasons as a backup signal caller at San Diego before being acquired in a trade by Thomas.

Rookie Glenn Doughty also will start at wide receiver, replacing rookie Cotton Speyrer, who is injured, and second-year players Don Nottingham and Don McCauley will start in the backfield for the second straight week while veterans Tom Matte and Norm Bulaich nurse injuries.

It was McCafferty's refusal to bench Unitas which helped lead to his dismissal after the Colts lost to Dallas last Sunday for their fourth loss in five starts, with defensive line coach John Sandusky taking over.

In a story published in a Baltimore newspaper Wednesday, Thomas denied having instructed either McCafferty or Sandusky to start Domres.

After Wednesday's practice, however, Unitas reiterated that Thomas had telephoned him Monday after McCafferty had been fired and informed him that Domres would play.

"I told him, 'that's your decision,' and hung up," Unitas said.

Cougars defeat Colonels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Cunningham did some traveling over the summer from Pennsylvania to North Carolina but all indications are the distance didn't affect him one bit.

Cunningham, who left Philadelphia of the National Basketball Association to join Carolina of the American Basketball Association, showed Wednesday night he's still the same old player who is "great" in capital letters.

The rangy forward led the undefeated Cougars back from a 20-point deficit to beat the Kentucky Colonels 105-100. In the fourth quarter he scored 17 points and pulled down seven rebounds. He finished the game with 25 points, 15 rebounds and eight assists.

In the other ABA games, the Memphis Tams trimmed Dallas 90-86, Indiana beat Utah 107-103, and Denver whipped Virginia 115-100.

Reds cut Oakland's lead

OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and Oakland A's entered the "Twilight zone" again tonight for the fourth game of the 1972 World Series.

And because of it, both teams looked forward to another low-scoring game following Cincinnati's 1-0 triumph Wednesday night that cut Oakland's series lead to 2-1.

"The twilight made the difference for me," said winning pitcher Jack Billingham after gaining the victory with ninth-inning help from Clay Carroll.

"You'll see another good one tonight with Don Gullett pitching," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

"Maybe the rest will be one-run games too," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams.

The first two games of the best-of-7 series were played in Cincinnati last weekend, but the 3-2 and 2-1 Oakland successes were fashioned without any assistance from nature.

When the Series switched to the Oakland Coliseum this week, the striding time for the contest in California was 5:30 p.m. That's the worst time for a hitter because of the fast-fading light.

Cincinnati slugger Johnny Bench, who went 0-for-4 Wednesday night and struck out three times, had been apprehensive about the conditions.

"I hate to hit in the twilight in Oakland," he had said.

But while it hurt the major leagues' top home run hitter, it also didn't do too much for the Oakland team.

"I don't usually strike out that many batters," said Billingham, who fanned seven Athletics. "The twilight no doubt helped me."

There was no twilight, however, when Billingham tired in the ninth. The journeyman right-hander, who gave up three hits through eight innings, started the ninth by throwing three straight balls to Mike Epstein while the crowd of 49,401 at the Coliseum cheered.

Anderson then decided that Billingham had gone far enough.

Carroll then came in to preserve that shaky lead by getting Epstein on a bouncer, Sal Bando on a soft line drive and George Hendrick on an easy hit to the mound.

While he was in, Billingham, a right-hander with an unspectacular 500 lifetime record, was a superman as far as Oakland was concerned. He fed the A's a steady diet of sinker balls all allowed only three flies during his tenure.

The only hits that he gave up were a bunt single by Joe Rudi in the fourth and infield hits by Dick Green in the fifth and pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez in the seventh.

His only jam came in the sixth inning, when the A's had men on first and third with none out and the bases loaded with one man gone. But Billingham finished off the A's by getting Bando on a rally-killing double play.

John "Blue Moon" Odom was equally good for Oakland, striking out 11 before running into trouble in the seventh inning, when the Reds scored the game's only run.

Reds work out frustrations

OAKLAND (AP) — Cincinnati slugger Johnny Bench says the World Series umpires have done the Reds a favor.

"We got a few calls that upset us tonight," Bench said after Cincinnati's tense 1-0 victory over Oakland Wednesday night.

"Our ball club is riled up," he said. "Now maybe we've worked out our frustrations."

Bench was anything but a key factor in the Cincinnati triumph, being called out on strikes three times, once with teammates on second and third base.

Tony Perez signed and was sacrificed to second base by Denis Menke. Cesar Geronimo, hitless in his first nine World Series appearances, then laced a single to center field.

Perez barreled around third, slipped and fell on a field made soggy by 10 straight days of rain. But he picked himself up and scored the winning run when Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris made no relay throw.

He was particularly upset about a call at first base in the Oakland sixth, when umpire Frank Umont said Bench's throw had drawn Joe Morgan off the bag.

That play put Oakland runners at first and second, but the Reds worked out of a bases-loaded jam moments later with a double play.

Bench said his inability to hit didn't stem from the pressures of low-scoring games in which the Reds look to him for home run power.

practice—something it hasn't had since Sunday—before tonight's fourth Series game.

"But I've always said good pitching will beat good hitting, and the pitching in this game was excellent," he added.

Reds' starter Jack Billingham, who was relieved by Clay Carroll in the ninth, gave up only a bunt single and two infield singles.

A's starter John "Blue Moon" Odom went seven innings, giving up three hits and striking out 11, three more than he fanned in any regular season game.

Catcher Gene Tenace said, "I was yelling 'home' too, but I knew they couldn't hear us."

The shortstop said, "When I see the guy, he's sliding into home."

After the 1-0 loss, A's Manager Dick Williams said, "We're still ahead, two games to one, and I still think we're going to win the World Series. I won't predict how many games it will go."

"It won't be a sweep. I can tell you that."

Williams was hoping his team would be able to take batting

Fullback search may be over

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The longest-running soap opera in Arkansas is Search for a Fullback.

The umpteenth chapter of the tear-jerking story of one team's seemingly unending and desperate hunt unfolded two weeks ago when the University of Arkansas met TCU at Fort Worth.

The role of leading man was awarded Jon Richardson and, if he can avoid the pitfalls of most soap opera heroes—mysterious diseases and love triangles—the drama may be over.

Our story began more than a year ago when Russ Garber underwent an operation on his toe. Prior to the surgery, Garber figured to be the Razorbacks' fullback.

Since that time, those considered for the fullback role include Skipper DeBorde, Scott Binnion, John Jenkins, Marsh White, Mike Saint, Wayne Miles, Jimmy Fryer, Scott Bull and Hal Hirschfield.

During the spring of 1971 the fullback situation looked so promising that Binnion was moved from fullback, where he had played as a sophomore, to linebacker.

Garber tried to play in the 1971 season opener against California, but netted only four yards on four carries. In the same game, DeBorde gained 81 yards on 10 attempts.

DeBorde managed only 13 yards against Oklahoma State and then suffered two costly fumbles in the 21-20 upset loss to Tulsa.

DeBorde made 37 yards and Garber 18 against TCU and then Garber came back against Baylor, carrying 12 times for 53 yards. However, his toe swelled up after the game and he was through.

Jenkins, a sophomore, started against Texas and rushed for 59 yards on 17 attempts. Two weeks later, Texas A&M gave Arkansas the middle to help protect against quarterback Joe Ferguson and Jenkins made only seven yards on seven attempts. A&M won, 17-4, although Ferguson completed 31 of 51 passes.

Teams cannot live by the pass alone.

Saint was switched from tailback to fullback the week of the SMU game and performed well in the season finale against Texas Tech, gaining 160 yards on 29 carries.

After the 1971 season, Coach Frank Broyles talked about how important the fullback was to the Arkansas attack:

"You can have all the outside speed in the world and we did, and they can widen their ends and make sure you don't get outside," he said. "You can have the best passers and receivers in the world, and we did, and they can deepen their halfbacks and their linebackers and clog up your lanes. You can prevent all this if you have a strong fullback. We didn't have one."

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Tom Cahill of the Army football team greeted 120 candidates at the opening day of fall practice.

Oakland blames nobody

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Athletics blamed nobody, just poor acoustics, for the run that gave the third game of the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

"The runner's supposed to score on that play," center fielder George Hendrick said Wednesday night, patiently going over his part of the ball handling on Cesar Geronimo's game-winning hit in the seventh inning.

The Reds' Tony Perez was on second base and started running when Geronimo singled up the middle. Hendrick, going by the book, threw toward second base—just before Perez fell flat on his face rounding third base. Shortstop Bert Campaneris took the throw near second and checked to see if Geronimo was trying to stretch the hit into a double.

"I saw Perez fall down and I yelled for Campy to go home with the throw, but the crowd was yelling and he couldn't hear anything," third baseman Sal Bando said. "If the throw had gone home right away, we would have had him."

A force named Williebrown

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — (NEA)—The fervor of Willie Lewis Brown Jr. is overpowering.

Sure, you remember Willie Brown. The Democrat convention. The dispute over the seating of the California delegation. Willie Brown, wringing his hands passionately, almost shrieking, beseeching, "Give me back my delegation!"

And getting it when the McGovern forces, which he represented, won their battle.

You'll be hearing lots more of Williebrown the says it like it's one word) now and in the future.

Williebrown is an impudent lawyer in a not-so-nice part of town, on Octavia Street, where rubble—broken glass, beer cans squashed, chipped concrete—spills over the curb. He is also an assemblyman in the California state legislature, representing the 18th district, which includes the posh Pacific Heights district of San Francisco.

Williebrown is, foremost, a politician.

"I'm interested obviously," he says, "in maybe being the speaker of the California legislature one day soon."

That's for openers.

"Secondly," he continues, "I'm obviously interested in being the mayor of San Francisco. The mayor's race comes up in 1975, and there are many people who have said that Williebrown is the next natural mayor of San Francisco. And Williebrown on occasion has voiced the same opinion."

He talks like that in a very detached third-person sort of way, and I suppose the psychiatrists can read some grandeur implications into it.

"And finally," with a pause for effect, "I'd like to be a United States senator."

Williebrown is 38 years old. He is slight and slim and wiry and kinetic. He is also black.

A black, any black, will tell you that there is never a day when he is allowed to forget the fact of his blackness. Is it this way with Williebrown?

"Of course. And there never will be. Frankly, I'm glad that I have something unique other politicians of the same stature and ability can't offer. I have as much name recognition in San Francisco as Joe Alioto (his honor, the mayor), and probably more than any other officeholder in this city, not only because of all the things I do, but because of the uniqueness of a black man doing it."

And yet there is the transcendent feeling that in the pecking order of a man's self-evaluation, Williebrown would tell you that he's a politician first and a black man second. Otherwise, how would it be in the cards for a city with a black population of 13 per cent to even contemplate having a black mayor?

"Well," he answers, "Williebrown has transcended the ethnic kind of politics in terms of ethnic attractiveness. My political conduct and ability has indicated something far beyond being simply a black representative. In my own district, which is 17 per cent black, San Francisco has accepted me in toto. It's a unique city able to accept that kind of leadership. This is an island of sanity when it comes to politics, separate and distinct from the rest of the world."

Yet the biggest stimulant to the political career of Williebrown was that moment in Miami in August when the Democratic convention, and national television, focused on him.

Four years earlier, as he remembers it, he led the fight to kick Georgia's Lester Maddox out of the convention but Julian Bond got most of the press. Then a year and a half ago, when George McGovern was making a San Francisco speech in a church, Williebrown introduced him.

"After he finished," remembers McGovern, "I was embarrassed to speak." So the South Dakota senator picked Williebrown to be his anchorman in the convention debate on the seating of the California delegation.

"I was a little nervous, frankly," recalls Brown, "that I was given the role. I knew I had four minutes at most to convey to that convention the deep-seated anger of the California people if phony politics was used to stop them from their legitimate place on the floor. I had to psyche myself up."

And so came forth his impassioned plea which won the convention's vote. Now Willie walks down the street and two out of five people—his estimate—recognize him. A lady from Birmingham, Ala., sees him in a San Francisco hotel lobby and says, "The only thing I liked about the Democrats was Willie Brown, and you're Willie Brown, aren't you?"

Once you've seen him, Williebrown is easily distinguished. He has a personal flamboyance overtly visible in his pastel-shaded, zootily tailored clothes.

"I spend as much time shopping for clothes," he confesses, "as I do practicing law. But don't tell my partners that." He spends maybe 20 hours a year in regular legal work. The other 90 per cent of the time he's a politician.

"Many people construe the word 'politician' as something sinister," he says, "where there are unqualified, or dishonest persons holding the position. I don't happen to believe that."

As the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he holds one of the most responsible jobs in the state. "Eight billion dollars is the budget of California," he explains, "and I'm the chief manager and author of that budget. I don't know any other man who takes care of $8 billion and gets paid only $19,200 a year for it." The latter figure is his salary as an assemblyman.

"Politics," he adds, "can never be practiced by very poor people."

Williebrown came from poor people. He's from the little town of Mineola in rural east Texas. His mother was a domestic. She still is. His father is a retired Pullman porter now living in Los Angeles. Willie came west to San Francisco State after high school because he wanted a better education. He went on for his law degree at the University of California.

In May 1960 he tried to purchase a home in an exclusive hilly area of San Francisco and was rejected because he was black.

"There were five days of demonstrations," he recalls, "and I made every newspaper in the country. Everybody began to recognize Williebrown as somewhat of a force."

Cache River suit pending

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A suit seeking to halt the Cache River-Bayou DeView channelization project in Northeast Arkansas was taken under advisement Wednesday by a special three-judge federal panel.

The panel of judges included Gerald Haeney of Duluth, Minn. Andrew Bogus of Rapid City, S. D., and Roy L. Stephenson of Des Moines, Iowa.

The suit by environmentalists seeks reversal of a lower federal court ruling that found in favor of the Army Engineers' $80 million project, which already is into the first phase of work.

Richard Arnold of Texarkana, Ark., attorney for the environmentalists, appealed the lower court ruling on grounds Army Engineers did not prepare a complete environmental impact statement.

The attorney said statements by the corps did not meet requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1970 and Arkansas residents have not been informed of the complete effects of the channelization project.

Arnold said that among other things, the flood control project, which will drain the land, will not only result in the clearing of a vast acreage of forest, but also will destroy the wetlands necessary for survival of many types of wild game.

"The land in question includes a great duck migratory path in the lower Mississippi flyway," Arnold said. "This is an important segment of the flyway."

Glen Goodall, a Justice Department attorney from Washington, D. C., said the government contends the environmental impact statement was complete and did comply with the 1970 law.

He said there are 3,400 farm families along the 232-mile route affected by the project who would benefit from the flood control program.

Welfare system demeaning: Babbitt

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Wayne H. Babbitt of North Little Rock, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate position of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said Wednesday the present welfare system was "very demeaning, very unsatisfactory."

He said the system was a chaotic mess and that it was apparent the 92nd Congress was unwilling to deal with the problem.

Babbitt said a system should be adopted immediately that would "concentrate funds on those with the greatest need, treat all people fairly and equitably, and encourage people to work."

If elected, Babbitt said he would try to institute changes in the present system.

The GOP candidate also said the nation needs a unified budget and that Congress needs to stay within the budget. He said "runaway spending" caused increased taxes. He said there was "no way we can continue with this ever-increasing deficit."

Babbitt also said he was "within striking distance" of McClellan as the election nears. He said he was pleased thus far with support he has received from Washington. He said $7,500 had been contributed to his campaign by the Republican Senatorial Committee.

Quiet bill OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just before the 92nd Congress ended, a retiring member's final House act enabled environmentalists to send President Nixon a bill that could help Americans enjoy a quieter future.

After twice refusing to go along with hurry-up maneuvers in the last hours of the session, Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., finally gave up his lone stand against a bill making the biggest federal move to muffle noise.

The House, immediately followed by the Senate, shouted approval and sent the antinoise pollution legislation to the White House Wednesday night. The administration has endorsed the effort to curb noise nationwide.

This "insures that unlike air and water pollution, the excesses of noise pollution do not become so prevalent as to literally threaten the destruction of the environment," said the bill's main author, Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the House environment subcommittee.

Hall's lone objection had blocked the House from accepting the bill by unanimous consent. Saying he was against noise but also opposed rushing such major legislation through Congress, Hall had objected Tuesday night, and again Wednesday afternoon.

On the third try, with Congress just hours from adjournment, the money authorized over three years was reduced from $35 million to $21 million in a last bid to convince Hall.

Hall again complained: "I still think the penalties are too severe." He paused. The House was silent. "But I withdraw my reservation." The House promptly passed the bill. The Senate quickly agreed.

The Environmental Protection Agency would set standards on noise from construction and transportation machinery, motors and engines, and electronic and electric equipment. Citizen suits could be brought against the government or others who fail to follow mandatory requirements. In cases involving planes, EPA would give the Federal Aviation Administration recommendations on ways to equip aircraft with antinoise devices.

Congress at a glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here at a glance is what the 92nd Congress did in the final hours before adjourning Wednesday night:

SPENDING CEILING: After failing to reach a compromise acceptable to both chambers, House and Senate conferees abandoned the $250-billion spending lid President Nixon had requested.

CLEAN-WATER BILL: The $24.6 billion authorization measure became law when the House and Senate voted to override Nixon's veto.

HIGHWAYS: The bill providing $6 billion for highways and $3.4 billion for mass-transit systems died when the House failed to muster a quorum to vote on it in the moments before adjournment.

SKYJACKING: Also killed by lack of a quorum in the House was a bill giving U.S. juries the option of sentencing a convicted skyjacker to death and halting U.S. air travel with countries harboring skyjackers.

Politics '72: Voices in the hinterlands

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has returned to the campaign with a denunciation of antiwar protesters "who have exercised their lungs ... much better than they exercised their minds."

Meanwhile, his Democratic rival, Sargent Shriver, said that win or lose, the campaign will have been worth it if it forces President Nixon to accept peace in Vietnam.

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, campaigning in Ohio, also touched on the war issue Wednesday, saying Nixon adviser Henry A. Kissinger "is going to be traveling all over the world in search of the peace that was promised four years ago."

President Nixon did not have any campaign appearances scheduled for Wednesday or today. A radio broadcast that was planned for today was postponed until sometime during the weekend.

A Nixon spokesman did deny that anyone at the White House "had any involvement, awareness or association" with the June 17 break-in at Democratic party headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington. "If anyone had been involved in such activities," said press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, "they would not long be at the White House."

Vice President Agnew made his first campaign appearances of the week at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Green Bay, Wis., and was scheduled to go to Bridgeport, Conn., today.

Confronted by antiwar hecklers at Calvin College in Grand Rapids, Agnew repeatedly chided them. "I am certain that the many students — who have sat and sat courteously through my remarks ... are somewhat embarrassed by the lack of civility on the part of those few who exercised their lungs," he said to cheers.

Shriver, the Democratic candidate for vice president, said in Chicago that if the McGovern-Shriver campaign "can achieve nothing more than to force President Nixon to accept peace terms in Vietnam, that will have been a great achievement."

At Yonkers, N.Y., he told a black that any black who votes for Nixon this year "has lost his brain."

McGovern said in Toledo, Ohio that he wishes Kissinger well in his current efforts to work out a peace agreement, but added: "I do not honestly believe that's what is going to happen."

Spiro Agnew

In other developments: —McGovern again challenged Nixon to a debate which would exclude "sensitive matters of a national security nature that you might not wish to discuss publicly." But a Nixon spokesman rejected the challenge saying, "Our position is unchanged."

—McGovern's campaign chairman, Lawrence F. O'Brien, ran television tapes at a news conference of three statements by Nixon in 1968 favoring presidential campaign debates between major party candidates.

REWARD ESTABLISHED

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A $3,000 reward was established Wednesday by Union National Bank here for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons involved in recent attempts to extort money from the bank.

Bank President Herbert McAdams said persons with information should contact the FBI or Little Rock police.

During the past several weeks, there have been extortion attempts involving bomb threats at several Little Rock branch banks.

Better relations with new police?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Police chiefs worried about poor community relations in the ghettos have heard a proposal for improving the situation: recruitment of paraprofessionals from the neighborhoods to work with regular officers.

The proposal was made at the International Association of Chiefs of Police annual conference Wednesday by James W. Shumar, chief crime and delinquency adviser for community development of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Shumar said that police frequently are trained to be impersonal in performing their duties, which they primarily regard as catching criminals.

"However, when it comes to dealing with human affairs — with people problems — the attitude of detachment and the cold, impersonal approach simply does not work," Shumar added.

He said that police cannot properly perform even their criminal-catching duties without support from the community.

Shumar, in an interview prior to his presentation to the chiefs, said the paraprofessional would be recruited right out of the neighborhoods in which he would work, and would be conditioned to accept responsibility for overseeing services to his community.

Shumar acknowledged that such a recruit isn't always going to fit the old-time image of how the boys-in-blue should look and behave.

But he said, "The fellow who has grown up in the ghetto is much better able to relate to its problems. He hears their complaints with a much more tuned ear than the officer who is not experienced in the ghetto."

He asserted that day after day, armed police trained to catch criminals are called to assist in quieting family quarrels or handling juvenile problems simply because there is no other agency for the public to call.

Shumar acknowledged there are problems in getting paraprofessional police programs going. The department has invested several million dollars giving it a try in cities that include Chicago, Tampa, Fla., and Richmond, Calif.

Market to remain apart from USA

PARIS (AP) — The new nine-nation European Common Market must remain distinct from the United States but not opposed to it, President Georges Pompidou of France told the opening session today of the enlarged trade bloc's first summit meeting.

The expanded group must remain united in the international monetary and trade negotiations to come, Pompidou warned the other government chiefs. Such a common position "will not be a cause for confrontation but a factor of balance," he said.

He added that the Market must also promote economic and technical relations with Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Two staunch allies of the United States, Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain and Willy Brandt of West Germany, were among Pompidou's listeners. As they met, the British pound dropped a full cent to $2.3975, its lowest level in 10 months, because of persistent inflation in Britain and the threat of a national power strike.

The weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks was postponed until next Thursday as Pompidou took over the meeting site in the Hotel Majestic for the two-day summit.

Britain, Ireland and Denmark will become members of the Common Market on Jan. 1. They will have the same status as the six founders: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Another half dozen West European countries will be joining their customs union, though without a voice in the management of the organization. Efforts are being made to bring in more countries on both shores of the Mediterranean.

The present six members are already the world's biggest trading bloc. Now the question is whether the enlarged Common Market can become much more — a force in the world such as Britain, France or Germany were before World War II.

Immediate prospects are dim. The six founding members have been trying for two years to get together on foreign policy with almost no success. Their one joint venture, a common policy on the Middle East, failed when West Germany backed away because Israel considered it pro-Arab.

One decision expected from the meeting is the creation of a European Monetary Fund with resources of about $1.4 billion dollars. Its purpose will be to help keep the exchange values of European currencies closer to one another.

One day — perhaps about 1980, the hope is — there will be a single West European currency.

'War' with British is called off

BELFAST (AP) — Protestant guerrillas called off their war with the British army Wednesday night after two nights of widespread shooting and rioting in which at least four persons were killed and 80 wounded.

Some rioting and gunfire continued after the truce, but on a decreasing scale, and army headquarters reported all quiet soon after midnight.

British army officers and local police met with commanders of the Protestants' Ulster Defense Association. After two hours of talks, the British announced that both sides would "do all in their power to take the heat out of the situation."

"Our war with the British Army is now over," said Tom Herron, a UDA vice chairman. "We agreed to try to stop the situation deteriorating any further. We agreed to try to cool it."

He added, "We could not expect the situation under 100 per cent control immediately. But we can in a few nights."

The UDA claims it can put 50,000 armed men onto the streets.

UDA gunmen took to the streets and started shooting at the army after two Protestant youths were killed by armored cars during riots Monday night. The UDA charged the killings were deliberate. The military said the deaths were accidental but appealed the UDA by promising that allegations of army brutality would be investigated by the police.

Meanwhile, there was some activity by the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army. An IRA sniper hit a British soldier in the leg, and bombs blamed on the IRA damaged a car showroom and a factory in Dungannon and Sion Mills.

In East Belfast, a Catholic school was hit by a gasoline bomb and a Catholic chapel was wrecked. Those attacks were laid to Protestants.

McGovern: Tackling the issues

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is tackling an assortment of netting issues—from amnesty and abortion to marijuana and his altered Democratic ticket—in televised question-and-answer sessions.

That tactic led the Democratic presidential nominee Wednesday night into a televised debate with an unseen critic who telephoned to accuse him of changing his positions—and was told to "let George McGovern speak for George McGovern."

It was the second in a series of television appearances billed as person-to-person sessions with the nominee, this one broadcast on a hookup of nine stations covering Ohio and West Virginia.

McGovern plans a total of 10 such programs, the next in New York Monday night, answering telephoned questions in the big states that are pivotal to his campaign strategy.

Gordon Well, a top McGovern

aide, screens the questions off-camera, but said he purposely puts through the ones that deal with problem issues. The object is to confront troublesome topics, in hopes of putting to rest some of the items McGovern strategists say trouble voters most about the nominee.

Thus, McGovern was asked about Republican charges that his projected defense-spending cuts would cost 88,000 jobs in Ohio, which he denied.

He was asked whether he would legalize marijuana and replied that he would not, but advocates that its use be treated as a misdemeanor, not a felony.

He was asked about abortion and said it is a matter for the states, one that "does not belong in a presidential campaign."

McGovern was to meet privately today with Toledo labor officials before flying to Philadelphia to appear before a United Electrical Workers meeting.

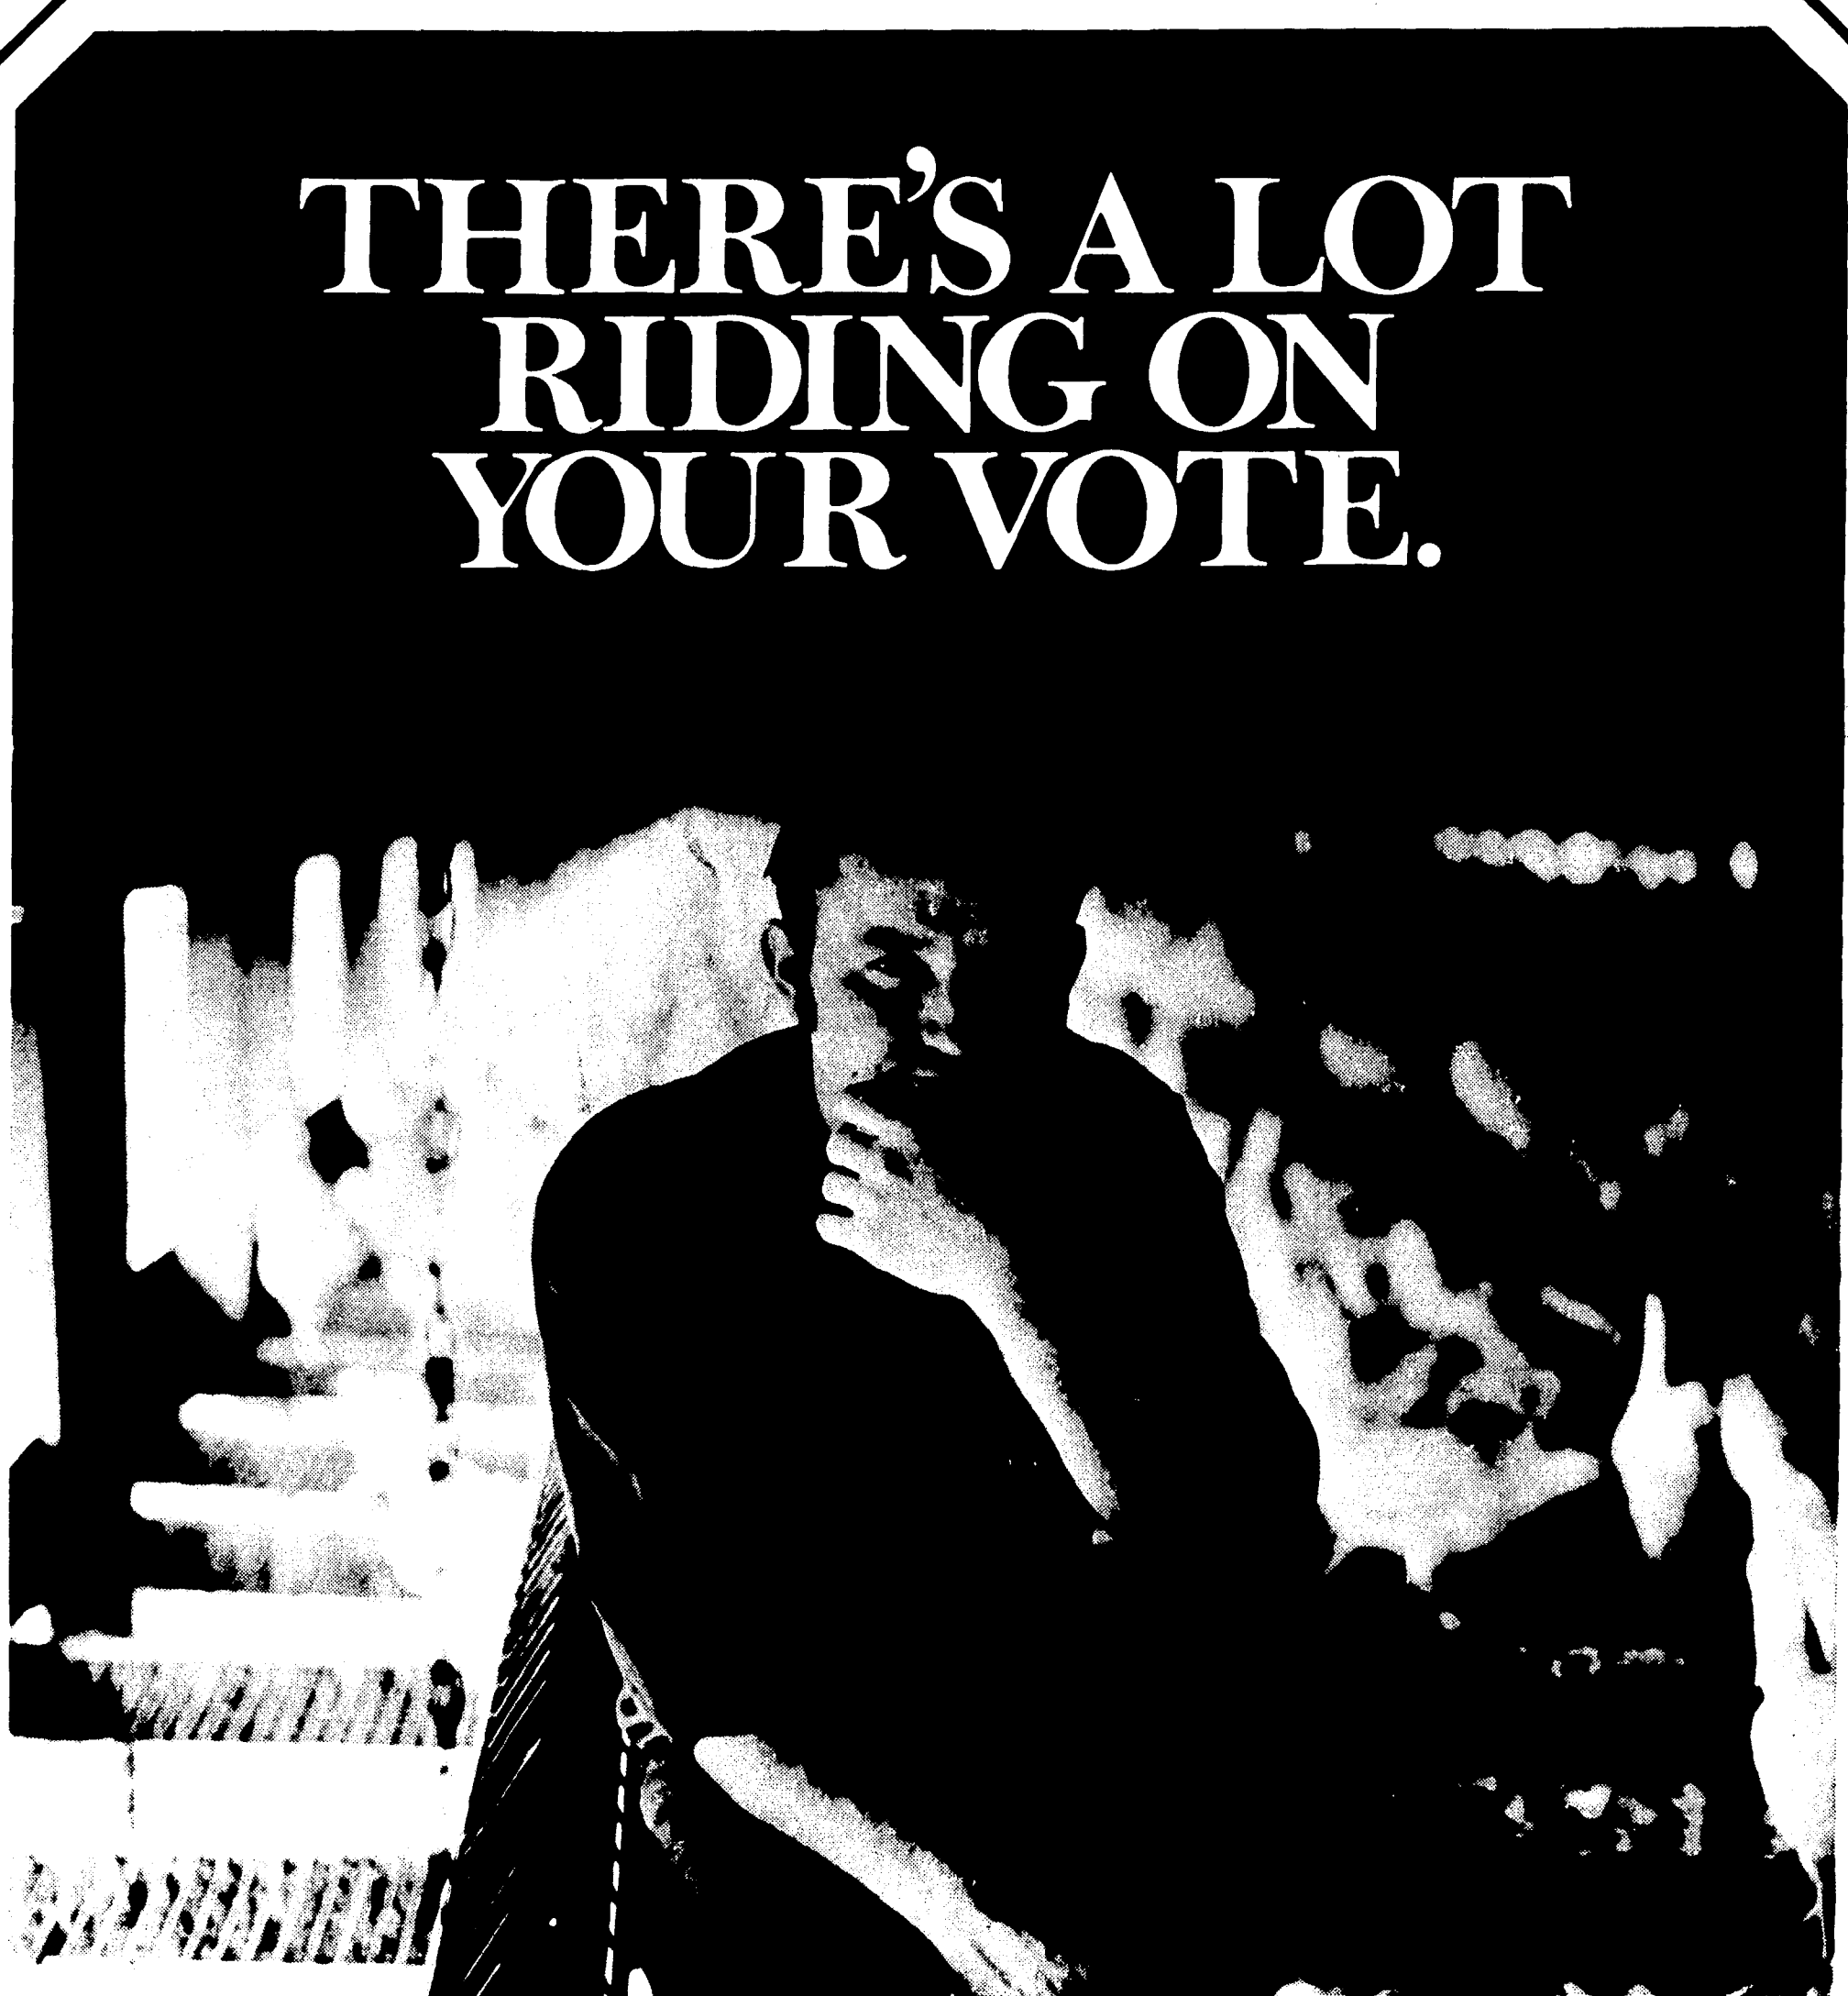

McGovern accused the Nixon administration of joining with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the Senate Finance Committee to "cheat American workers out of pension reform."

In a statement issued in advance of his Philadelphia appearance, McGovern said the size of the private pension system, over $150 billion, "is equaled only by the outrage that it perpetrates on the American worker whom it is supposed to serve."

THERE'S A LOT RIDING ON YOUR VOTE.

Act 1 will be a turning point for Arkansas. Railroading touches almost every farmer, every factory employee, every individual in Arkansas. Act 1 will go far beyond protecting the jobs of train crew members to help secure better opportunities for all of us. Arkansas won't have a special shipping cost and this will help Arkansas companies and farmers compete with the prices of goods and foods produced in neighboring states. Salary and income levels will continue to rise in Arkansas. Study the issue. Vote FOR Act 1.

win the club lead in dummy and lead a trump toward your hand.

Why do you do this?

Your only worry is that the trumps may break 4-1. If they do and West has four to the jack-nine, you will have to lose a trump trick. If East has four to the jack-nine, you can find out about it with two trump leads and finesse against East.

If you win the club in your hand and lay down the ace, a smart East may drop the nine to give you the option of playing the king next on the theory that West started with jack-5-4-2.

If you lead the first diamond from dummy, East is much less likely to make that nine-spot play. If he does you pay off to him.

Answer tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another Jeff Rubens problem. You find yourself in an inferior six-diamond contract. Inferior because six no-trump depends on picking up the queen of hearts. At six diamonds you also must worry about a potential diamond loser.

Rubens' explanation of how you reached six diamonds instead of either three or six no-trump is that your partner misbid. That is as good an explanation as any so we accept it.

The Rubens' problem is: How do you plan the play?

The answer is that you

Local store personnel attends seminar

By DOLORES MCBRIDE

Decisions! Decisions! All types of labels, fabric, fibers, finishes, styles, prices, notions, etc. are made available to today's consumer. This should cause the consumers in the Hope area to appreciate the personal interest shown by local personnel of local fabric-ready-to-wear businesses in attempting to find out all they can to better advise local consumers in making wise decisions.

"Your best friend is an honest, well-informed sales person" challenged Mrs. Fann Woodward, extension specialist-family economics, at the training sessions held by the Hempstead County Cooperative Extension Service this week for retail fabric-ready-to-wear store personnel. Dr. Ava Rodgers, state leader, extension home economics, identified the store personnel as "educators" in key positions to help consumers choose wisely from merchandise available. Dr. Rodgers cited ways to be alert to the needs of consumers and help them arrive at satisfactory purchases.

The label is receiving much attention. Consumers should "look" for labels, and, according to Dr. Mary Cotton, University of Arkansas instructor in textiles and clothing and fashion merchandising, consumers may find all types of labels appearing in different places on garments and packaging furnishing all types of information—from identifying merchandise and brands to certification of tests, mandatory information on fiber content and finishes, design details, fabric combinations and special garment construction. Learn to interpret the information and follow it to expect satisfactory results, she said.

Advances in the textile field were recognized by Mrs. Woodward as influencing bringing about current label laws and an appreciation for labeling requirements.

The retailers and manufacturers have a current important and valuable responsibility in offering merchandise coming on the market featuring permanent labels with-the-garment at the point-of-sale that stay with the garment during the life-span of garment. Consumers will note a label being given to them when over two yards of fabric is purchased from the bolt and consumers should attach this to the garment when construction is completed.

Mrs. Cora L. Guthridge, extension clothing specialist, shared some information on sewing equipment adjustments, appropriate selection of notions and construction techniques to bring about a more professional look in sewing with knits.

Dr. Cotton illustrated how to recognize and achieve a good fit. She discouraged misfitted signs of shapeless distorted appearance and mislocated fabric ease and gaping. Fitting clues were given to help give a good fit well proportioned and conforming to the structure of the figure.

To help insure the most satisfaction from purchase, consumers need to assume their responsibilities, said. Dolores McBride, Extension Home Economist. She encourages consumers to seek to know more about what they are buying—learn to interpret and use the information being made available in carrying out appropriate care techniques.

Elizabeth Ellis, extension specialist household equipment, introduced a discussion on fabric care that stimulated interest in more information to help consumers prevent damage to the appearance and performance of fabric. An additional training session is being developed on how and why of proper care.

The Extension Service is planning to continue consulting with store personnel and urges consumers to share the responsibilities in bringing about satisfactory products and service.

Local businesses participating in training were: J.C. Penney Company, Fabric Center, Fabric Center, Lewis McLarty, Rephans, T.G. & Y Family Center, Mary's Fashion, Safeway, Ladies Specialty Shop, Raleys Style Shop, Haynes Bros. Department Store, Wests, Herbert Burns, Main Dollar Store, Fred's.

Proposal incorporated into bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said Wednesday his proposals to stem migration from rural to urban areas has been incorporated in the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1972.

One provision would authorize the Department of Housing and Urban Development to subsidize one-third of the interest cost, for the life of the loan, of loans acquired by cities of 50,000 or less for various civic improvements.

Special tax is waived by USSR on 20 families

MOSCOW (AP) — Jewish sources say the Soviet government is letting 20 families emigrate to Israel without paying the controversial education tax, but they warn that this probably does not mean an end to the levy.

The 20 families received permission Wednesday to emigrate without paying the tax if they leave by Oct. 28, the sources said. They added that the members of the families were not considered activists in the Jewish emigration movement.

Six of the families had previously been told they would have to pay the equivalent of $200,000 to reimburse the state for their education.

The sources could not explain the tax exemption and the departure deadline on which it was contingent. But they suggested the government might be trying to appease U.S. congressional critics of the heavy tax which the Soviet government began to levy on emigrants in August.

Seventy-six senators, or more than two-thirds of the Senate, are sponsoring an amendment to block trade concessions to Moscow unless the heavy exit fees are rescinded.

Ten Jewish scientists held a clandestine news conference in Moscow Wednesday and said some would be Jewish emigrants in Moscow are so desperate for money to pay the education tax they would welcome help from the West.

Meeting foreign newsmen in an apartment, the scientists said individual Moscow Jews have helped some emigrants collect money for the taxes, but that these informal funds are "exhausted."

The scientists had much to say about the plight of the six families assessed the equivalent of $200,000, saying their exit visas were good only until Nov. 6.

People in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Sandy Duncan, 28, has been granted a divorce from actor Bruce Scott Zahariades following a year's separation.

Superior Court Commissioner Jules D. Barnatt granted the divorce Wednesday. The two were married in September 1968 and separated just as Miss Duncan's successful television series "Funny Face" was introduced.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson will speak at University of Virginia graduation ceremonies here next June, according to Pat Patrick, the senior class president.

Patrick said he had received Johnson's acceptance, which stated that the former president, who has been in poor health lately, would be pleased to deliver the June 3 address, health permitting.

Johnson's son-in-law, Charles Robb, is a law student here and will be one of the 2,000 graduates.

For Thursday, Oct. 19

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

Don't make changes for the sake of change. Use a practical approach for all short and long-range plans. Concentrate on increasing income. Prospects good.

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19): Be extremely considerate of those with whom you work. Your empty promises could be very disappointing.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23): You may be tempted to let others shoulder your burdens. You won't like yourself if you do—neither will they.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20): Let your practical nature prevail. If someone offers you something for nothing, that's exactly what it's worth.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22): A friend could request some financial assistance. Be sure the need is realistic and immediate before consenting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't waste your time day-dreaming. Discipline your thoughts by doing something productive and constructive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21): Pursuit of pleasure should not be your primary goal. Neglect of basic responsibilities could cause consternation later.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): You may be tempted to let the cat out of the bag about the "Joneses." Loose words reflect poorly upon your image.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19): Though you didn't plan on it, you may have to place the needs of someone less fortunate before your own interests.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): A lavish gift will not make the impression you hoped for. Sincere gestures are the better medium of exchange.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19): Forget the short-cuts. Eventually, they'll only make what you have to do more complicated and frustrating.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22): Your thoughtfulness toward others will be carefully scrutinized. Render assistance willingly. Stress compassion, tolerance.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20): Though grass may look a little greener elsewhere, don't do anything that would jeopardize your reputation or home.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Info is offered on nitroglycerin

Ry Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing to ask for some clarification about nitroglycerin pills. You said in one of your columns that they are quite all right for the treatment of recurring angina but harmful for persons who had chest pains. What is the difference between angina which my doctor told me I have, and chest pains. How can one tell when he is having an attack of angina without the pain? I was told by my doctor that it would not harm me to take nitroglycerin in anticipation of pain unless I overdo it.

You also said that the reason nitroglycerin didn't harm some people is because they weren't fresh by the time they are taken. How long will they keep and what is the best container to keep them in? I carry mine in a plastic box in my pocket, which I refill from time to time from pills contained in a small glass bottle of 100 pills as they come from the drug store. I have this refilled every three or four months.

Dear Reader — Because the use of nitroglycerin tablets is widespread, it is important that people really understand their use, benefits and dangers. Angina pectoris is the constricting or squeezing discomfort or pain in the chest associated with heart disease. Angina lasts less than 10 minutes. Longer episodes may be a heart attack.

not had any angina or chest pain for a period of several months and has not been taking nitroglycerin tablets, because he didn't need them, and then suddenly develops chest pains should call his doctor first.

The onset of chest discomfort that resembles angina in a person who hasn't had angina for a month or years, often means a heart attack and the treatment is different. These individuals are well advised not to take anything except under their doctor's recommendation, and he will usually want to see them right away. Nitroglycerin tablets taken at the onset of a heart attack (I'm not talking about angina) can sometimes lower the blood pressure and cause shock, thereby complicating the heart attack and may be very dangerous.

Nitroglycerin tablets will not stay fresh unless they are kept in a special container. The small glass bottles with the 100 pills that you get from the drug store is carefully sealed to keep the pills fresh. In this state they will stay fresh for months or years. Once the seal is broken and the tablets are exposed to the air and normal environment, they will gradually deteriorate. The rate of deterioration varies but you should not keep pills longer than six months after the seal on the initial bottle is broken or in a plastic box or other ordinary container. Even this may be stretching it a little for some preparations. Most of them, if kept in their original bottle even though the seal is broken, should be good for a period of three to six months, however.
